LONGTIME INTEREST—Carol Rodgers of Kensington, Md., is shown watching Mrs. Eugene Haney of the Quality Control Department, Cone Mills Laboratory, inspect Cone denim, something Carol has been interested in since her second grade school days.

Long-Time Interest In Cone Denim Brings Visit

Back in 1949, a little girl in the second grade in a Silver Springs, Md. school wrote to Cone Mills asking for information on the making of denim. Superintendent Sherman Basinger replied to the child's letter giving a very clear and concise explanation of the making of denim. He also enclosed a sample of the fabric and a booklet, "Cotton Magic."

Last week the same girl, no longer little, and no longer in the second grade, had a chance to visit Cone Mills. Carol Rodgers, who is now 12 years old, and lives in Kensington, Md., has been visiting her aunt, Mrs. C. W. Durham on North Ridgeway Drive here in Greensboro. On Thursday of last week she and her aunt and cousin, Roger Durham, also 12 years old, topped by the Cone Mills Laboratory building and saw inspection of denim in the quality control division. They visited the Cone Mills Inc. Sample Department and saw last week's issue of The Textorian go to press.

Carol and her cousin asked many intelligent questions concerning the making of Cone fabrics. They went away with copies of "The Story of Cone Denim," "How Much Does It Cost?" "Cone Fabric Facts" and copies of The Textorian.

Both of these young people are awaiting the time, six years from now, when they will be 18 years old and will be allowed to make a complete tour of a Cone plant and really see the processes from cotton to cloth, an interesting subject to Carol for many years.

Accident Prevention Contest Underway

John A. Prone, a somewhat foolish fellow who claims to be a Cone employee, will appear on Cone bulletin boards during the three months of the Accident Prevention Contest which began on July 1. John A. (for Accident) also appears in the "ears" of today's Textorian with a quip or two. You may see him there also from time to time during the coming weeks.

John A. is a likeable chap who is always having so called "bad luck" because of his own foolish ways. You'll find a little nonsense in the things he does and quite a bit of good sense to be learned from his antics.

All Cone plants in and around Greensboro, excepting Guilford Products, are entered in the Accident Prevention Contest. Pineville Plant in Pineville, and Granite and Tabardrey Plants in Haw River, are also participating. The number and severity of injuries in each plant will be scored against the man-hours worked by the plant during the three month period. This method of scoring insures fairness where plants vary in size.

The Accident Prevention contest runs through the last day of September. During this time John A. Prone will continue to appear, reminding us of the need for more care about our personal work habits.

Camp Herman To Be Open Monday, July 5

In keeping with the policy established by the Camp Committee and approved by the Board of Directors of the Cone Memorial Y.M.C.A., Camp Herman will be open on July 5, and will be closed on Tuesday, July 6. The lake will be open at 10:00 a.m. for swimming, individuals and groups, boating and fishing. No permits will be required.

Tables are available for families and their picnic baskets. Other groups may have wieners roasts, marshmallow toasts and cook-outs. Horseshoes, shuffle board and other recreational games are available on the campus.

There will be plenty of water from the Camp Herman 250 foot well. A concession stand will also be open.

Load up the family car, and lunch basket, get your fishing pole, and can of worms and have a day of recreation at Camp Herman Recreation Center, 10:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m.

Cone Club To Be Open Monday, July 5

Cone Mills Club will be open Monday, July 5, to accommodate the holiday crowd. The club will be closed Tuesday, July 6 for clean-up day.

The regular schedule will be resumed Wednesday.

A FEW LINES FOR READING ON THE FOURTH OF JULY

They say that you're fearful, afraid, Indiana, Utah, Maine, and the Carolinas, Georgia, Ohio, and the Dakotas—States, People, Americans... They say that you're fearful, Vermont, California—

Fearful of what? Of whom? And why? Why is the big Question, Oregon, Washington—(Washington, who were you named for, anyway?) Illinois, Montana, Arizona, Nevada, Oklahoma, Missouri—All the Great 48—all fearful, afraid

They say. They—fearful little men in big city towers, in ivory towers, Whispering, muttering, words, maledictions, woes, predictions, Suspicions—GLOOM... DOOM—

Fearful little men with books and pens, Oracular, vernacular, picture-tubes, mikes Do they know America? Do they feel America? Do they know you, great united states, great plains and mountains?

You're not afraid, are you? Louisiana, Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma... Or are you?

Remember, today the Fourth of July, that there was a July 4, 1776, when 13 puny Colonies with no Army or Navy, no nothing at all but brave, brave hearts—13 poor little patches of patriots, Americans, who stood up bold to the King of England and the might of his Empire, and boldly, bravely

"RESOLVED: That these United Colonies are, and of Right ought to be, Free and Independent States; that they are Absolved from all Allegiance to the British Crown; and that All political Connections between them and the state of Great Britain is, and Ought to be, Totally Dissolved."

THE UNANIMOUS DECLARATION OF THE THIRTEEN UNITED STATES OF AMERICA.

And you, Forty-eight, are Afraid Today? "I only regret," said Nathan Hale, "that I have but one life to lose for my country." ... "I have not yet begun to fight," said John Paul Jones... Remember them?

And the pioneers, the covered wagons, the unknown, the savages, the vast unexplored, the frontiers, the hardships—Remember Daniel Boone, Kit Carson, Jim Bridger, Davy Crockett; General George Custer on the Little Big Horn? Remember Sam Houston, the Alamo—What if they had been afraid!

Remember the Marines on Iwo Jima? What is a heritage, Americans—a faint, fearful heart?

If we're afraid today, the Question is, Why?

We've got the Hydrogen Bomb, we know how to wipe out cities, to vaporize people—

Have we discovered that and lost God? ?

White Oak Y's Men To Have Camp For Boys

In an effort to provide a camping program for the youngsters in the local communities, the White Oak Y's Men will sponsor its first weekend camp July 10-11 at Camp Herman.

Plans are to accommodate 70 boys, ages 8-12, on a first-come, first-serve basis. If the initial registration runs beyond 70, a reserve list will be kept and those on it will be the first eligible to attend future camps sponsored under the auspices of the Y's Men.

Registration can be made at the front desk of either White Oak or Proximity Y. To be eligible, the boy must be the son of a Cone Mills employee and at least eight but under 13 years of age.

Leaders for the camp will be Y's Men and adequate and capable supervision is assured for this event. A well planned and organized program has been arranged, complete with the regular activities normally associated with camping.

Hiking, swimming, handicrafts, outdoor cooking, chapel service on Sunday morning and games are some of the things in store for the youngsters who attend.

There will be no charge for this camp. However, each boy will be required to furnish the following articles of food: half-dozen wieners; one dozen hot dog rolls; two eggs; and two strips of bacon.

In addition, each person should bring two blankets; a pillow if wanted; a towel, soap, and tooth brush and a bathing suit for swimming.

Transportation will be provided to and from camp. The campers are to be at White Oak or Proximity Y no later than 12:30 p.m. Saturday, July 10. They will be returned by noon Sunday.

Mr. Smith Stresses Business Knowledge For Production Men

In speaking to mill superintendents who attended the 45th annual convention of the Southern Textile Association held at Myrtle Beach, S. C. recently, Harold W. Smith, secretary and comptroller of Cone Mills Corporation, stressed the need of a business background for mill production men. His title was "Mr. Production Man, You Too Play on the Financial Team."

This need, he said, far exceeds the know-how required to run a spinning mill or a weave room. He observed, however, that the wise production executive knows when to call in a consultant engineer, a tax expert or a cost accountant.

Mr. Smith told how scrap machinery sometimes can be converted into "after tax" profits. The Cone Mills comptroller, who is a CPA, cited the importance of production men working together cooperatively with financial men in the business. He also discussed the importance of mill management's properly scheduling shutdowns.

Cone Post To Have Lawn Party Tomorrow

Annual American Legion Lawn Festival begins tomorrow (Saturday) at 2:00 p.m. in the grove near the White Oak Mill. This year something new has been added. A parade will form in front of the White Oak Y at 1:30 p.m. and the parade will go through Proximity, Revolution and end in the grove where the Lawn Festival is being held. All boys and girls are urged to decorate their bicycles and wagons and get in the big march.

Cone Post 386, sponsor of the parade and festival is holding a final meeting tonight at 7:30 in the Legion Hall to make final plans for the big day tomorrow. All Legionnaires are asked to attend this meeting in order that this project will be a success.

Some lucky boy or girl will be the winner of a shiny new bicycle tomorrow night, donated by the Cone Post.

The prizes for bingo, fish pond and ring toss games have arrived and there are really some nice prizes to be given away. All kinds of "midway" attractions will be offered throughout the evening. There will also be concession stands with soft drinks, hot dogs and pop corn. With the temperature reaching 102.4 last Sunday, which was the highest ever recorded at the local weather station, the Post is setting up a stand to sell snowballs, all flavors.

The Pythian Little Leaguers, White Oak Y's Men's Club, a group of the Proximity High School Band, clowns and ponies are but a few of the many features of the big parade.

Committees for the various projects at the Lawn Festival are: Pony Rides—Vernie Cockman; Concession Stands—C. C. Elmore, Joe Odell.

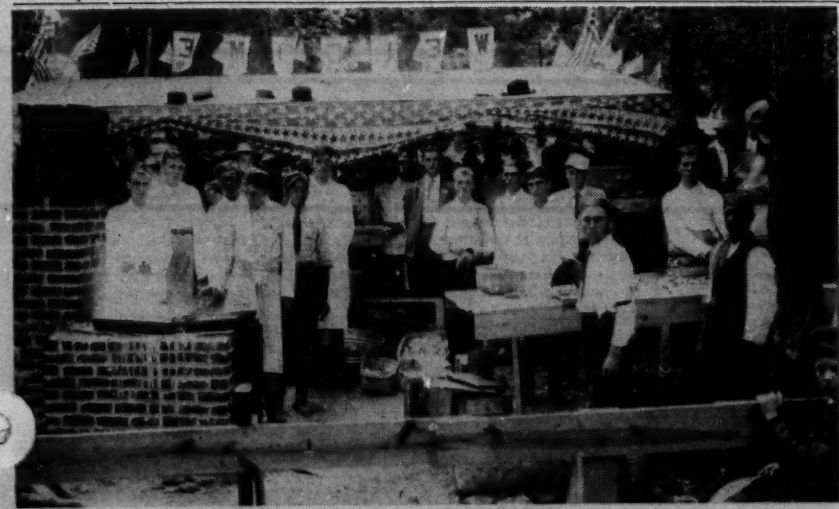

Fish Pond—Norman Pinkelton, James Weaver, Jr.

Ring Toss—Harold Bateman, H. W. Shores, Jr.

Snowballs—Billy Parson, Worth Murray.

Bingo—Arthur Stanley, Henry Stanley and Bobby Honeycutt.

Golf—Hole in one—Coolidge Ward.

Reproduced below is another portion of the Cone Mills booklet "How Much Does It Cost?" First reprint was on June 18. From time to time, The Textorian expects to carry such comparisons from the booklet to give employees some idea of the vast cost involved in upkeep of textile machinery and other equipment.

HOW MUCH DOES IT COST?

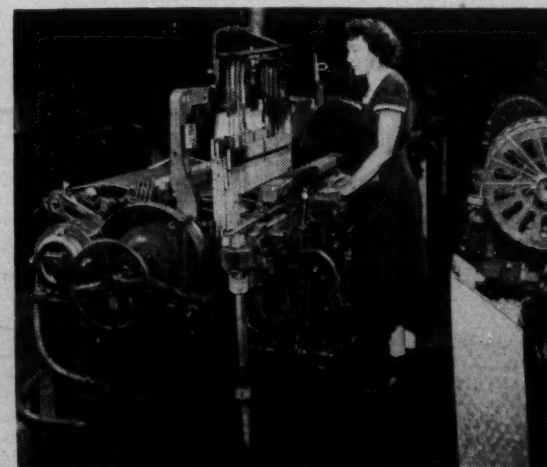

SMART FOLKS... SAVING FOR THE FUTURE

If you saved one dollar a day, how long do you think it would take to pay for the loom on the right? Careful now. The answer may fool you!

(Photograph by Harold M. Lambert)

The loom pictured below costs about $1,200, so it would take about 3 1/2 years to bank enough to buy it. At the same rate of saving, it would take over 55,890 years to replace all the 17,000 looms owned by Cone Mills Corporation when they wear out.

Should Be No Compromise Position

Congressman Graham A. Barden, at the recent annual meeting of Greensboro Industries, Inc., emphasized the necessity of fairness in dealing with matters of industrial relations. He took a very strong position against the federal government being given powers to control matters that rightfully belong to local and state governments.

He placed particular emphasis upon the rights of citizens to expect local law enforcement officers, and not the Federal government, to protect the rights of individuals, both as to their persons and their property. Congressman Barden stated in effect that too frequently law enforcement agencies fail to perform their duties for fear they might lose favor in certain quarters or because it might not prove to be politically expedient.

We feel it is of utmost importance that men entrusted with the responsibility of preserving law and order and protecting the rights of citizens perform their duties without fear or hesitation, regardless of what they might think the political reaction will be. After all, such people are employed to perform their duties and not to promote political favor. It stands to reason that such public officers who are derelict in performing their duties because of what they consider political expediency or because of fear have no right to continue in such capacities.

In reference to the Taft-Hartley Act, the Congressman from New Bern had the following to say: "Ever time anyone has tried to play politics with the Act, fingers have been burned." A good many far-thinking citizens have been concerned over the attitude not only of some law enforcement officers but also of some legislative representatives who are likewise bound by oath to protect the general welfare as well as the rights of individual citizens. There has been too much willingness to forget those responsibilities for political and personal reasons.

We can see no compromise with the position that a law enforcement officer should take when it comes to protecting a citizen against abuses or protecting the properties of citizens. The sooner all such officers recognize that responsibility the more law and order we can expect, regardless of whether it is in cities, counties, or the state as a whole.

Understanding The Aged

It is a rare family these days that does not have at least one aged member, often living in the home with the younger generations. This situation can be a happy one for all concerned if the normal results of aging are understood.

The wisdom of experience, wealth of memories, and keenness of thought are not lessened by the physical effects of age, and they can and should contribute much to the richness of family life. Arteries do harden and the cells they supply with nourishment may fail to function as in youth. This may cause some problems in the family, but they should not be allowed to cancel out the important contribution older people can make. They should be seen for what they are: side issues, annoyances to which adjustment can be made.

Every person has his own way of showing age. The arteries that supply different parts of the brain wear at different times and to different extents. But some changes are common to everyone. The first is usually loss of ability to make new permanent brain records. The power to recall recent happenings declines, but old memories stand out more sharply and come to mind easily than ever.

Another difficulty results from loss of circulation to sections of the brain that gather information from all parts of the body and relay orders to the muscles. This causes some annoying discomfort. Little areas of numbness, neuralgia, and crawling sensations of the skin are common. Trembling, stiffness, or slight clumsiness may appear. However, it is unwise to shrug off all discomfort as "just old age." The doctor should be consulted regularly. There is much he can do to make the later years of life more comfortable.

It is important for all members of the family to understand something of the changes that come with old age. With understanding will come more enjoyment of the company of the older members and fuller use of their powers.

DOGS by Tom Farley

Dogs Loyal To Dogs, Too

Although stories of dogs' devotion to other dogs are rare. However, just after reading an account of an unusual happening of this type in a magazine published nearly a hundred years ago, history repeated itself . . . this time in Australia.

The old magazine told of two dogs that "were in the practice of going out together to hunt squirrels on the mountain near New York." In pursuit of his quarry, one of the dogs caught his head between two rocks and was unable to free himself.

For the next eight days the other dog tried by signs to bring human help to his trapped friend, but was unable to get anyone to follow him into the woods. When at last help did come they found the trapped dog terribly hurt from efforts to free himself, but alive and far from starved. For he had obviously been well fed . . . the ground around him was covered with bones and scraps of food that had been brought him by his pal.

And now comes the report from

Melbourne of a dog owner who tells how two collies trapped in an abandoned mine shaft were kept alive by a third collie which carried food to them each day.

Mrs. Irene Hughes, who lives near Melbourne, said that recently her valuable collies disappeared and, after two weeks, she noticed her third collie leaving the house with a piece of meat in his mouth. She followed and saw the dog drop the food down the shaft. In it were her missing dogs.

It is government's responsibility in a free society to create an environment in which individual enterprise can work constructively to serve the ends of economic progress.

—President Eisenhower

America by 1975 will have a population of 190,000,000, according to estimates made by the Social Security Administration.

This will represent an increase of about 29,000,000 over the population of 1954. These figures reflect the potentialities for this country's growth and demonstrate that there is no foreseeable limit on our capacity to produce, if we have the incentives and if we use our physical resources intelligently.

An increase in population and continuance of America's traditionally expanding economy will bring an increase in the labor force to about 88,600,000. This will mean 22,100,000 more persons will be at work in 1975 than were in 1954.

What Do You Know About Safe Driving?

Here's a popular feature on safe driving distributed by the State Department of Motor Vehicles. Try your hand at the questions and see how you rate. The best drivers—and the safest—ought to get at least nine correct answers. You have three choices in each question. Mark the one you think is right, then check the end of the column for the correct answers. All set?

1. When the speed of a car is increased from 25 m.p.h. to 50 m.p.h., the braking distance is increased approximately: (a) four times, (b) three times, (c) twice.

2. At 50 m.p.h. a reasonably safe distance at which to follow the car ahead is: (a) 3, (b) 4, (c) 5 car lengths.

3. You are traveling at 45 m.p.h. and wish to pass another car on a two lane road. This requires about 10 seconds. The number of feet that your car will travel before you have passed and are back on the right side of the road again is: (a) 300 feet, (b) 450 feet, (c) 600 feet.

4. Drivers exceed speed limits chiefly because: (a) they don't know the regulations, (b) they lack skill, (c) they have poor attitudes.

5. When the right wheels of your car slip off the pavement, you should (a) turn back onto the pavement quickly, (b) slow down gradually and steer back onto the pavement, (c) apply the brakes sharply and cut the wheels back onto the pavement.

6. While the average driver is moving his foot from the accelerator to the brake, a car going 50 m.p.h. will travel approximately: (a) 35 feet, (b) 55 feet, (c) 75 feet.

7. A common characteristic of the "show-off" driver is that he: (a) does not know the regulations, (b) lacks presence of mind in emergencies, (c) drives too fast for conditions.

8. Your car is being overtaken and passed by another car on a two lane road. Just as this car starts to cut in, another approaches around a curve. In most cases it is best to (a) maintain speed, (b) slow down and give way, (c) speed up.

9. As you approach an intersection it becomes apparent that your car will enter the intersection before a car approaching from the street on your right. However, that car's speed is greater than yours. You should: (a) speed up to match his speed, (b) slow down and prepare to stop, (c) maintain your speed and don't let him bluff you.

10. A flashing red traffic light means: (a) slow down, (b) stop, (c) congested traffic area.

Greensboro T.B. Ass'n To Sponsor Program

A new series of radio dramas based on true stories of people faced with tuberculosis will be broadcast over Station WPET for 13 weeks beginning July 5 every Monday at 11:15 a.m. The series is sponsored by the Greensboro Tuberculosis Association in cooperation with the station's management.

Vincent Price, distinguished Broadway and Hollywood star, is narrator of the dramas, according to Ed. Fillinger, association president. This is the seventh series of "The Constant Invader" produced by the National Tuberculosis Association in New York with professional casts of actors well known in radio, television, movies and the stage.

These 15-minute dramas contain comedy, romance, and adventure. Mr. Fillinger said. There is tragedy too, because these stories are about real people fighting tuberculosis. But, most of all, there is hope—because tuberculosis can be prevented and can be cured, because the modern campaign against TB is steadily moving to victory.

He pointed out that many of the stories in "The Constant Invader" series might have come right out of Greensboro and Guilford County. We know these people by different names. The Tuberculosis Association meets them, works for and with them in its year-round activities.

Lloyd Amos Speaks To White Oak Y's Men

Lloyd C. Amos, chairman of the Guilford County Board of Commissioners was the featured speaker at the White Oak Y's Men's dinner meeting June 23. Mr. Amos spoke of the duties, operations, and problems of County Government.

He also related briefly the property revaluation program and some of the problems attached to it. A few of the chief duties of The Board of Commissioners are to levy and collect taxes, build and maintain school buildings, courts, and prisons. Other major responsibilities are to provide for the poor (welfare), T. B. Hospital, and county home. After his talk, the meeting was opened for questions and discussion.

Special guests for this meeting were the managers of the softball teams which are participating in the Y's Men's League.

The next Y's Men's club meeting will be July 7, and the club will have as its speaker Oka Hester, head of the City Recreation Department.

Recompense no man evil for evil. Provide things honest in the sight of all men.—(Romans 12, 17.)

Striking back at someone who has said or done wrong toward you may satisfy your pride for a moment. It does nothing but harm, however, to one's better self wherein the soul abides. Revenge is weakening; in returning good for evil, is strength and lasting satisfaction.

Traffic Deaths High

Motor vehicle accidents remained the nation's No. 1 accident killer last year, according to the National Safety Council, with home accidents in second place.

But while the home accident death toll of 28,000 was 1,000 less than in 1952, the traffic death toll went up 1 per cent to reach 38,300—biggest in the nation's history except for 1937 and 1941.

When in 1881 the New York YWCA announced it was sponsoring lessons for women typists, there were loud protests in the papers that the female constitution would "break down under the strain."

The most talked about team this past week is the improved Proximity Office team. In their first game of the week, they beat Print Works 12 to 10. Even though Proximity Office only got 6 hits to Print Works 16 hits they proved that they could make their runs on the mistakes that Print Works made. Leading the hitting for Proximity Office was Bill Pennington with 4 hits. Don Rayals had 4 hits for Print Works.

Proximity Office proved that they were not going to be in last place by defeating the strong White Oak plant team, 11 to 7. Proximity Office got off to a 7 run lead in the first inning and scored 2 runs in the third and 1 each in the fourth and fifth.

Leading the hitting for Proximity Office was D. O. Myrick and Raymond Meadows with 2 hits each. Melvin Whitt got 3 hits for White Oak Plant.

In another rained-out game White Oak defeated Revolution

Payroll 24 to 7 for an easy win. Leading the hitting for White Oak was Vernon Jarvin with 4 hits.

The unbeaten Rayon team had a hard time winning their last game. White Oak was leading 6 to 4 in bottom of the fourth when the Rayon team tied the game up in the fifth 6-all. Then the Rayon team scored their winning run in the bottom of the seventh on a passed ball. Leading the hitting for Revolution Rayon was Floyd Smith with 2 triples. Al Smith had three hits for White Oak Plant.

In another rained-out game Proximity Plant defeated Print Works 10 to 6. Leading the hitting for Proximity Plant were T. Seawell with 3 hits and Robert Collins with 2.

Print Works redeemed themselves from the losing column by defeating the last team in the league, Revolution Payroll, 22 to 13. Revolution Payroll had a 13 to 12 lead in the bottom of the sixth, but Print Works scored 10 runs in the top of the seventh to win. Arnold Melvin lead the hitting for Print Works with 4 hits.

Standings for the league are:

Team	Won	Lost
Rayon Plant	8	0
Proximity Plant	6	2
White Oak Plant	5	4
Proximity Office	3	6
Print Works	3	6
Revolution Payroll	1	8
